NORTHFIELD SUPPER

Fund Raised by Supper and Entertainment to Send Delegates from South Church to Northfield

More than one hundred dollars was added to the fund which is to send representatives of the South Church Sunday School to the Northfield summer school, as a result of the supper and entertainment held in the church vestry last Friday evening. Eight members were sent from the Sunday school last year and results were so satisfactory that it is hoped to send even a larger number this year.

An excellent supper was served to one hundred and thirty guests, the menu consisting of cold stuffed lamb, macaroni and cheese, pear salad, rolls, ice cream, sandwiches, and coffee.

Those who waited on table were Marion Kimball, Katherine Farlow, Margaret Moore, Viola Cashman, Lucy Sanborn, Luther Gulick, Donald Bassett, Calvin Metcalf, Charles Currier, Edwards Weeks, Reginald Whitcomb, Walter Partridge, Howard Huntress, Abbott Cheever, Norman Pittman, Richard French, Leslie Arnold, Irving Whitcomb.

The committee in charge consisted of Harriet Carter, Marion Kimball, Margaret Bullock, Viola Cashman, Katherine Farlow, Walter Partridge, and Edward Weeks assisted by Mrs. G. F. Cheney, Mrs. P. W. Partridge and Mrs. Herbert White.

Following the supper, the girls of the I. B. G. sorority, captained by Marjorie West, competed with the boys of the X. B. K. captained by Abbott Cheever, in a Chinese spelling match. Rev. E. Victor Bigelow gave out the words and Philip R. French acted as referee. One minute was allowed each contestant to pronounce the word, spell it backward, and pronounce it once more, but so quick and keen were the young people, that no one exceeded the allotted time. Words such as "elephant," "experiment," "integer," and "irrigate" were spelled backward without hesitation. "Legislature" and "nominative" thinned the ranks to three. "Leopard" drove Edward Weeks from the field, leaving the honors to Helen Ripley and Abbott Cheever. Abbott didn't find "simplified" so simple and when Helen had spelled it correctly, she was awarded a box of candy.

The grown-ups then had a spelling match, a team captained by Joseph C. Kimball representing the Men's club and one captained by Mrs. G. Edgar Folk representing the Women's Union. As only six men could be found in the whole parish, who had sufficient confidence to spell in public, the teams had only six contestants on a side. After preliminary tests had shown a slight advantage to the men's team, the final contest was held.

Frederic S. Boutwell Guest of Honor at Dinner Given to Trustees and Employees of Savings Bank

Last Wednesday, April 1, Mr. Boutwell completed thirty-five years of continuous service with the Andover Savings Bank. That evening he was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burton S. Flagg on School street, at which the Board of Trustees and employees of the Bank were also guests.

The comparative growth of the Bank, which began business in 1834, the varied positions held by Mr. Boutwell during the period as he advanced from clerk to clerk of trustees, assistant treasurer, and treasurer, and the history of the mutual idea as particularly shown in Savings Bank development, were outlined by Mr. Flagg, President of the Bank.

Mr. Barnett Rogers, as Dean of the Trustees and the only Trustee of the present board who had the privilege of voting for Mr. Boutwell's election as Treasurer in 1904, presented him with a Westminster Chime Clock in behalf of the Trustees.

Mr. Boutwell responded and very interestingly reviewed the history of the Bank during his association with its growth. He also discussed its possibilities of further development in efficiency, and the mission it has in teaching people to save and be thrifty. Mr. Boutwell is the third treasurer of the Bank, his predecessors in office being John F. Kimball and John H. Flint.

Later all present joined in enlightening and valuable discussion touching Savings Bank problems in general and various phases of the business in particular.

The task of classifying and tabulating 436,162 claims for 1923 fires, occurring in the United States, has just been completed. The sum of $535,372,782. represents the fire loss in the United States during 1923.

The chief originating cause of loss is "Matches-Smoking". The second largest cause is Defective Chimneys and Flues. The third cause is Stoves, Furnaces and other Heating Apparatus.

The fourth cause is Spontaneous Combustion. The fifth cause is Sparks igniting combustible roofs—$15,931,342. These tremendous losses have a definite economic effect in that they increase the cost of living to a marked degree. Fire losses increase taxes and advance the cost of insurance protection since premiums are based upon the rate of destruction.

ANDOVER COLONIAL

"The Golden Bed," the second big Famous Forty-Paramount production by Cecil B. De Mille, the man who made "The Ten Commandments," plays at the Colonial Theatre Monday and Tuesday, April 6-7.

The picture is an adaptation by Jennie Macpherson, based on the novel by Wallace Irwin which was published serially in Pictorial Review under the title "Tomorrow's Bread."

A beautiful girl is the owner of the golden bed—it is a legacy from her mother. She is selfish and cruel, with a loveliness that works like a spell on men. To her the bed represents ease and power.

She marries a Spanish nobleman but loses him in Europe and comes back home, to find her father has lost his money and absconded, leaving nothing for his daughters but the house and its furnishings.

She has a sister who is her exact opposite in character, and there is a poor boy whom she used to scorn who has now become a man of money and power in the town. Partly to spite her sister, but mostly for mercenary reasons, she exerts her bewitchment on the young man and marries him.

The young fellow, now has what he has dreamed of since boyhood—the lovely girl who once made fun of him because he was poor. The rest of the story is the shattering of his dream—the slow realization that it is the sister, always unobtrusively helping, whom he really loves.

It's easy to imagine what Cecil B. De Mille can do with a story like this.

Lillian Rich, whom De Mille claims is the greatest star "find," since Gloria Swanson, plays the leading feminine role in the production. Vera Reynolds, another De Mille star discovery, is the younger sister and Rod La Roque is cast as the boy candy maker who becomes the owner of a long chain of stores.

Warner Baxter, Theodore Kosloff and Julia Faye complete the featured cast. Other big names playing in support are Robert Edeson, Robert Cain, Henry Walt hall and Charles Clary.

Madam Lombard Celebrates Her Ninety-Seventh Birthday

The 97th birthday of Mrs. Martha Sawyer Lombard, mother of Rev. W. E. Lombard, formerly pastor of the Andover Baptist church, was quietly celebrated Monday of last week at their home on Garden street, West Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Lombard's mind is still alert and she spends most of her time reading as she has been able to get about but little for the past three years. She was one of the invisible audience that "listened in" on the inaugural address, and says she is well satisfied with the radio.

Mrs. Lombard received notes and cards from all over the United States, congratulating her, including messages from Maine, where she was born, and California, where she has many friends. The First Baptist church of West Springfield where Rev. W. E. Lombard is pastor, sent its congratulations and flowers. Mrs. Lombard was born in Paris, Me., and has lived in a number of states, spending many years in Vermont.

The following poem was sent by Grandma Preston, eighty-seven years old, to Grandma Lombard, ninety-seven years old, and is so full of hope and cheer it is well worth passing on.

"GROWING OLD"
They call it "Going down the hill," when we are growing old.
And speak in mournful accents when our tale is nearly told;
They sigh when talking of the past, the days that used to be,
As if the future were not bright with immortality.

But it is not going down; 'tis climbing high and higher,
Until we almost see the mountain that our souls desire.
For if the natural eye grows dim, it is but dim to earth
While the eye of faith grows keener to discern the Saviour's worth.

'Tis not the years that make men old; the spirit may be young.
Though fully three-score-years and ten the wheels of life have run.
God has himself recorded in his blessed word of truth,
That they who wait upon the Lord shall e'en renew their youth.

And when the eye now dim shall open to behold the King
And ear now dim with age shall hear the harp of heaven sing
And on the head now hoary shall be placed the crown of gold,
Then shall be known the lasting joy of never growing old.

The monthly meeting of the Essex Pomona Grange was held with the Andover Grange in West Parish hall with about eighty present, representing the Grangers of Amesbury, Haverhill, Lowell, Methuen, Merrimac, North Andover, Topsfield, West Boxford and West Newbury. The morning session opened at eleven o'clock with the Master of the County Grange, Charles L. Bailey, presiding. At one o'clock a substantial turkey dinner was served.

The afternoon session was devoted to the discussion of different topics of interest to the members. The first subject, "Are farmers responsible for not being able to command a high price for their products?" was spoken on by S. H. Boutwell, George L. Averill, James M. Putnam, and Ammon P. Richardson of the Andover Grange, James C. Poor of North Andover, True Hoyt of Merrimac and E. A. Emerson of Haverhill, Overseer of the State Grange. The question, "Is it as easy for a young man to get a start in life today as it was in the days of his father?" was discussed by Henry K. Flint of Andover, Fred W. Sargent of Amesbury, and Walsh Bartlett of West Newbury. The meeting closed at four o'clock and B. Frank Smith acted as auctioneer in disposing of the eatables. The committee on dinner consisted of E. W. Burt, George Ward, Milo H. Gould and Mrs. Jennie Gardner.

The quarterly meeting of the Andover Local Girl Scouts Take Part in Annual Review

Miss Priscilla Page of Troop 3, had the honor of acting as drum major at the annual review of the Girl Scouts of Lawrence, held last Saturday in the Lawrence High School gymnasium, and six members of the local troop were presented with badges by the Scout Commissioner, Mrs. Malcolm E. Peabody, and Scout Director Mrs. Donald C. Bennink.

Health badges, second class badges, and scholarship badges were presented to Barbara Lord, Mary Partridge, Helen Ripley, Elizabeth Perry, Charlotte Williams and Ruth Williams. Barbara Lord also received a musician's badge. Priscilla Page, Penelope Page and Elaine Burt would also have qualified for badges if their progress hadn't been retarded by illness. All the tenderfeet have completed their tests, Grace Hatch, Marietta Tower and Betty Bliss finishing with the highest honors.

Mrs. Malcolm E. Peabody who made her last official appearance as Scout Commissioner, spoke a few words of farewell, expressing her regret at leaving. In behalf of the Girl Scouts of Lawrence, Mrs. Donald Bennink presented Mrs. Peabody with a beautiful traveling clock as a mark of the love and esteem which they have for their retiring head.

Mrs. Fred H. Eaton of Central street will succeed Mrs. Peabody as Scout Commissioner. Scout Director Mrs. Donald C. Bennink was in charge of the afternoon's program, and under her very able supervision the following events went off smoothly, showing that a great amount of sincere work has been put into the preparations of the program by both the scouts and their officers. The program:

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag
Singing of the Star Spangled Banner
Recitation of the Girl Scout Pledge
Bugle Call
Suff-Cast Race

For the present, the latter will reside with his family in the Jones house and will move in next week.

An Up-to-Date Carriage Factory

A year ago the Townsman announced, that Tuttle & Morrison had completed the purchase of the works and business of what had formerly been known as "Poor's Wagon Shop." It was also stated that it was the intention of the new firm to rebuild and newly equip the plant. Matters that they were not then cognizant of intervened and instead of doing as they intended upon the spot where the business had been located for so long a time, they sold out their shop and land and purchased a site in the heart of the town on Park street.

There they have erected a large three-story building and have equipped it with nearly everything necessary for the successful promotion of their business interests. The building was constructed by Hardy & Cole and is heated with steam throughout, the steam heater being located in the basement.

On the first floor in the front are the offices, finished in natural wood as is also the show room adjoining. The show room is bright and airy and has two large windows and big folding doors opening on Park street.

In the wood-working room, the largest proportion of the machinery is located; the rounder, the boring and moulding machine, the band saw with adjustable tilting table, the circular saw bench with adjustable saw, the irregular dresser, the buzz planer, the thickness planer and the sand belt. Over in one corner is a small room partitioned off for the little twelve-horse power gasoline engine which runs the machinery of the whole plant as well as a circular saw in F. E. Gleason's wood shed adjoining.

In the rear of this room is the wagon smithery room over which the particular presiding genius is one of the proprietors, John L. Morrison. The fittings of this room include two forges, anvils and a drill press. There is also plenty of room for storage of iron.

Connected with the wagon smithery is the horseshoeing department which needs no introduction to the Andover public as it was formerly owned by T. P. Harriman.

Climbing the stairs to the second and third stories, we find two paint shops and two varnish rooms. Other rooms are used for setting up the carriages.

Just at present the members of the firm employ eleven persons and also take a hand and keep an oversight over the work themselves. Mr. Tuttle's particular branch is the wood working and painting departments. There are telephone connections at the shop.

Birthday Celebration

Joseph Nuckley of Park street, the well known ice dealer, was the host at a birthday dinner held in his honor at his home on Sunday. The guests were members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. John Nuckley, Mrs. M. F. Haggerty, Mrs. L. W. Murray of Lynn, Frank Nuckley and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Haggerty of this town.

The house was attractively decorated with spring flowers and yellow streamers and the dinner table was the center of attraction, loaded as it was with good things. Mr. Nuckley received numerous gifts.

This is the first time all the family has been together at one time for over thirty years, and it was a time of pleasure for all, renewing the good times of former days.

Friendly Visitors' Dinner

The men who acted as friendly visitors on Sunday at the Free church and visited the members of the church and parish, convened Monday night in the vestry of the church and enjoyed a dinner served by Caterer Weigel, and made reports on their canvases. In spite of the rain on Sunday, the thirty men chosen to represent the church, went their rounds, visiting the church members and their families. It was very helpful both to those who called, and to those who were called on.

CONVENTION PROGRAM

Awarding of shields.
Closing of convention.
The percentages at the meeting were:
Baptist 38 per cent, South 33 per cent, Free 25 per cent, West 19 per cent, North Andover 66 per cent. The Baptist church was awarded the banner for the largest attendance.
Refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream and coffee were served.
At Monday night's meeting in North Andover, Miss Amelia Drew presided in the absence of President James R. Carter, who was at the meeting of the Salem Union, in the interests of the county convention. Reports of the various officers were read and accepted. Miss Drew reported on the convention program. Rev. Clinton Carvell, pastor of Trinitarian Congregational Church, spoke on "The Meaning of Following Christ." The address was helpful and inspiring.

It is seven years since the historical town of Andover has been able to be host to the Essex County Christian Endeavor convention; it is also true that it is the first time that a great many members of the Union have worked on convention committees. The people who had charge in 1918, have dropped out of C. E., and are now doing work in the church as a result of the help obtained in Christian Endeavor.

The Endeavorers of Andover expect 1500 young people from all over the county to attend the convention. The total registration in 1918 was 1,000. Christian Endeavor work at that time was interrupted by the war, when many of the boys were in service. During the last two years, however, the Christian Endeavor societies have been built up with more members and for this reason the convention committee expects so many Endeavorers. It is also for this reason they are working hard to have an inspiring convention, in order to make a good impression on the new members.

The Andover union was organized in 1887. Six years after the first society in Portland, Me., was organized. During that time the union perhaps not accomplished as much as other unions, but it is with great pride that the Andover union records that William Shaw, United Secretary for a great many years, and at present publisher of the C. E. World, is a member of the Andover union, being a member of the Ballardvale Congregational church society.

At the present time there are six societies in the union, made up of the West Congregational, South Congregational, Free Congregational, Ballardvale Congregational and First Baptist of Andover, and the Trinitarian Congregational of North Andover. The total membership of the union is now 178, but every week there seem to be new faces appearing at the various society meetings; especially is this true of the South, Baptist, and West churches.

The pastors of the various churches are always ready to give advice and assistance and this is one of the many reasons why the union is in good condition. The members are realizing more than ever before, the duty and privilege they have in serving "Jesus Christ and His Church."

Much credit for the condition of the union must be given to James R. Carter, president of the union, who for the last two years has been one of the union's most active workers in everything it has attempted. Mr. Carter is a member of the West society, and is employed in Boston.

Herbert Otis is vice president of the union, is a member of the Free society, where he is a member. He has been an active worker in the union.

When there is money to be handled for the union, Wendall H. Kydd is always called. He has been the treasurer for the past four years. Mr. Kydd has been an active worker in C. E., holding many offices, among which were president of the union for a number of years. He is employed in the Tye Rubber Co., as receiving clerk.

Miss Dorothy Trott is secretary of the union. Miss Trott is a member of the South society and has been connected with the society only a short time. She is a senior at Pynchard High school.

The union officers have two advisors, it being the custom to have the past president of the union as one, and one of the pastors as the other. It is the duty of Miss Amelia Drew and Rev. Newman Matthews to fill these offices.

Miss Drew, past president of the union, is a member of the North Andover society, where she has been identified in C. E. work for a number of years. She is a bookkeeper in Davis & Furber Machine shop.

Rev. Newman Matthews, pastoral advisor to the union, comes from the West church, and has always proven himself ready to help the young people in their work for "Christ and the Church." To him goes a great deal of credit for the success of the Andover union for the last two years.

Miss Lena Davis is the quiet hour and tenth Legion superintendent. Miss Davis is also a member of the West society. She has attended several state conventions as a delegate, and brought back much helpful information. She is employed by the American Woolen Co., in the Administration building, Shawshoan.

William Barnett of the Free society is press superintendent. He has been active in society and union work for the past few years. He is parcel post clerk in Tye Rubber Co.

Miss Effie Ross of the Baptist church is in charge of the missionary department of the union. She has been identified in the work of the Baptist society for several years.

The officers of the various societies that form the union are:

Below is a brief history of the founding of the Free and West church societies. This information was given by former member of the societies who were responsible in forming the societies.

FREE CHURCH

It is with great pleasure that memory recalls the starting of the first "Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor" in the Free Christian church.

Rev. F. Harrows Makepeace, pastor of the church at that time, thought it would be a great help to the young people if they became affiliated with such an organization; a committee therefore was appointed to consider the matter, and to obtain such literature as would better acquaint us, concerning the object of such a society.

This committee reported favorably and the first night eight young people signed the constitution (let me say here that we felt this to be a matter almost as solemn as joining the church).

A temporary organization was made with Mr. Stephen Jackson as president.

At the next meeting, October 24, 1886, the president appointed John N. Cole, John W. Bell and Laura A. Spence a committee to bring in a list of officers for the permanent organization; this meeting closed with several earnest prayers for God's special blessings on this branch of his work. On November 7, 1886, the following officers were duly appointed: President, J. Newton Cole; vice-president, Mrs. Carrie Palmer Gould; secretary, Clara J. Baldwin; treasurer, Laura A. Spence. November 14, a committee was appointed to frame a code of by-laws which would be suitable for our society.

Article 4 of these by-laws seems worthy of mention, namely: There shall be a Literature Committee, whose duties shall be to promote in any way the distribution of good literature among our people." John W. Bell was appointed chairman. The first report stated, that fifteen dollars had been appropriated for use in this department.

Still another committee was the Sunday School committee, which cooperated with the superintendent, and officers in every way possible to better conditions in the school.

The first union meeting of all the societies in town, was held December 20th, 1886, reports from the different societies were, that steady progress was being made and much interest manifested.

December 4th, 1887, a committee was appointed to meet with committees from the other societies to talk over and plan for the formation of a local union.

We seldom failed in sending a delegate to both county and state conventions. Traveling expenses were met, or partially met by the society. Mrs. Carrie Palmer Gould was sent to Saratoga, Clara J. Baldwin to Worcester, and George A. Higgins to Philadelphia.

The following item, will be of interest—the Y. P. S. C. E. gave ten dollars to help pay the deficit in the Church expenses in February 1896.

This same year it was voted to raise twenty dollars to help support a Home Missionary in the Western field.

We wish it were possible to remember how our society raised all this money, since food sales and selling chocolate bars was not heard of in the long ago.

In closing, let me say that one of the characteristics of that early society, was its loyalty to the pledge, and to everything connected with our church, making the church first, our other obligations secondary, thus carrying out the real object, for which the Christian Endeavor Society was founded.

LAURA A. SPENCE

WEST CHURCH

The Christian Endeavor Society of the West Church, was formed November 1, 1887.

Nathaniel Cutler was the first president. The Rev. F. W. Greene, who had recently become the pastor, was instrumental in forming it and during the ten years of his pastorate it proved a great factor in the church.

Formed in the early days of the C. E. movement, we had the inspiration of the early leaders. Rev. F. E. Clark, William Shaw, James L. Hill, John Willis Bae, Nehemiah Boynton, and others at our Union and State meetings.

In our church, it meant for the first time, active service in the church work, on the part of both young men and women, the results of which are felt to the present day. Among those who were earnest Christian Endeavorers in its early days and are still active in our church work, are two of our deacons and many of our women workers.

The Baptist Church Society was founded in February, 1897.

Holds Party on Third Birthday

Donald Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cole of 16 High street, was host on Tuesday afternoon to a number of his young friends, who assisted him in celebrating his third birthday. He received many gifts which were enjoyed by all the guests after which there was an Easter egg hunt.

The supper table was prettily decorated in yellow and lavender, with a basket of little yellow chickens for the centerpiece. Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and ice cream were served as well as the birthday cake.

Among those present were Bernice Crockett, Fred Winkley, Mary Simeone, John Collins, Ruth Hardy, Richard Sutton, Robert Crosby, Marjorie Crosby, Marilyn Lewis and Eleanor Brown.

The children were accompanied by their mothers.

Bean Supper Served

John Jacob Rogers

The unexpected death of Congressman John Jacob Rogers, coming as it does at a moment when there is a tendency to discredit Congress and to stress the weakness and pettiness of individual members, is little short of a calamity. The House of Representatives probably never needed sound and careful leadership more than it does at the present time, and Mr. Rogers was one of the few in that body on whom the public had come to rely. His loss will be felt in many ways, not only by his constituents, but also by his associates and by the nation at large.

Mr. Rogers had arrived at a period in his career when his importance was becoming increasingly evident. His preparation for political life had been almost ideal. A graduate of Harvard College in the class of 1904, he had taken the course at Harvard Law School and had followed this with some years of actual practice of his profession in his native city of Lowell. Through this experience he learned something of business affairs. When he was chosen in 1913 to succeed Butler Ames as Representative from the Fifth Congressional District, he had not long passed his thirtieth birthday. Since then he has been a member of six successive Congresses, from the 63d to the 68th, and he had been decisively re-elected to the 69th. He could undoubtedly have been chosen for an indefinite number of terms if he had so desired.

By tradition the Representatives from Essex County, later rearranged as the Fifth District of Massachusetts, have been endowed with force and judgment. Since the days of Benjamin F. Butler, we meet the names of William H. Russell, Charles H. Allen, Fred T. Greenhalge, Moses T. Stevens, William H. Knox, and Butler Ames, each of whom was well thought of at the capital. But Mr. Rogers was not only a worthy successor to these gentlemen; he had already won a place in Washington to which no one of his predecessors really attained. He represented a rare type in American politics, a type commoner in Great Britain than in the United States, — the statesman who is also a scholar. Mr. Rogers made statecraft a profession. He was a student of economics and history, who probed into the past in order to learn lessons for the future. He had no selfish aspirations. His aim, it may be fairly said, was not to get something from the government, but to give something to it. It was his hope to improve conditions and effect lasting reforms.

Naturally a man with his information and logical faculties could not long be ignored in the House. He was early made a member of the important Committee on Foreign Affairs, of which, at the time of his death, he was the ranking Republican member. His achievement in drafting and pushing through the Rogers Bill for the rehabilitation of our diplomatic service was perhaps his most enduring contribution as a statesman; but there was no troublesome legislative problem on which he was not of recent years consulted.

Mr. Rogers was, furthermore, what is known as a useful Representative. He devoted himself wholeheartedly to all the duties of his office, including the many annoying requests with which anybody in such a position is besieged. His industry and patience were highly appreciated by his constituents, who felt that they could trust him. He was ready to answer the most trivial questions and to give his aid to all sorts of miscellaneous projects. Whenever he visited the voters of his district, he talked quietly, like one sensible man conversing with another, without any of the noisy or decorative features of oratory. He was a worker rather than a talker, — although he invariably spoke well when the occasion demanded it. He had the courage of his convictions. It sometimes took him a long while to make up his mind, but, when he had settled the matter, he did not hesitate to announce where he stood. He pondered for some weeks on the Adjusted Compensation Bill before he came to a decision, and he sought the counsel of men of every shade of opinion. His vote was eventually cast, not from impulse or prejudice, but from reason.

It was inevitable that people should have had their eyes directed towards Mr. Rogers. Men high up in Massachusetts affairs had agreed that no one of the younger Republicans in the Commonwealth was more promising than he. He had been mentioned for Governor and Senator, but had promptly withdrawn in favor of older men. He had accomplished much; he had the full confidence of party leaders and of voters; and a brilliant future was apparently ahead of him. We recall with sadness that he was only forty-four years old when he died.

It will not be a simple matter for the voters of this vicinity to fill Mr. Rogers' place. Indeed no man can fill it at once, because he had the prestige and influence which only years of loyal and intelligent service in Congress can bring. But it is important for us to select as his successor a man who will lend to that office the same distinguished qualities of intelligence and character which he possessed. We ought not to permit the place to be the shuttlecock for mere politicians. The country will be watching to see what kind of a man Massachusetts will send to Washington from this district; and we should take good care to choose one of whom we may be as proud as we have been of John Jacob Rogers.

Free Church C. E. to Hold Contest for New Members

On Sunday evening under the direction of Miss Helen Otis, a very interesting C. E. meeting was held in the Free church. Special music was rendered. All young people of the church are asked to join the society.

Inspector Bailey to Be Transferred

Brahms' Requiem to Be Played in the Chapel of Phillips Academy

On Wednesday evening, April 8th, at 8 o'clock, Mrs. J. C. Angus and Mr. Platteicher will play the principal choruses from Brahms' Requiem, piano and organ, in the Chapel of Phillips Academy. Admission will be free to the public. There will be a silver offering at the door. The Requiem, one of the greatest works in all music literature, opportunities to hear which are extremely scant, will be sung at Symphony Hall on the evening of April 16th, by the Harvard-Radcliffe chorus which will be conducted by Mr. Koussovitzky. Those planning to hear what purports to be the greatest choral treat of the present season may be interested in refreshing the choruses in their minds by the piano-organ performance during Holy Week.

Street Lighting Contract Signed

The Street Lighting committee has organized with Walter H. Coleman as chairman and John S. Robertson, secretary.

A three-year contract with the Lawrence Gas company, dating from April 1, 1925, has been signed providing for the so-called "moonlight schedule." This schedule calls for the lighting of the streets on twenty-seven nights of each month. On a thirty-day month, there will be no lights the night before the full moon, the night of the full moon, and the night after the moon is full; on a thirty-one-day month, there will be no lights two nights before the full moon, the night of the full moon, and the night after the full moon. In case of a dark or stormy night during the full moon, it is possible for the chairman of the lighting committee to arrange for lights, but if the moon becomes obscured after ten o'clock at night, no change in plans can be made.

The committee have also made arrangements with the Lawrence Gas company to have the lights turned on in case of fire and at such times as will accommodate the town employees who are clearing the sidewalks of snow before daylight. There will also be street lights for one hour before daylight during the three winter months.

The contract price for the year dating from April 1, 1925, to April 1, 1926, is $11,000. This sum allows for an increase in the number of lights, applications for a dozen new lights having been favorably considered by the committee.

HON. JOHN JACOB ROGERS

Tuesday Club Holds Presidents' Day

The presidents and secretaries of the women's clubs of Andover and the surrounding towns were the honored guests of the Tuesday club at an open meeting held in the November clubhouse on Wednesday afternoon.

The guests were received by the president of the Tuesday club, Miss C. Madeline Hewes, assisted by Mrs. Henry A. Bodwell, vice-president of the Tuesday club, Mrs. Guy W. Spear, vice-president of the New Hampshire Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. George Mellon of Lawrence, director of the tenth district of the Massachusetts state federation.

The meeting opened with a few words of welcome spoken by the president, who introduced the speakers of the afternoon, Mrs. Mellon and Mrs. Spear. "The time has long passed when women's clubs need to be excused or explained; they are now demonstrating the value of club life," said Mrs. Mellon, who then proceeded to outline the valuable service which club women are rendering to their communities through their special departments of civics, citizenship training, and volunteer service. She spoke especially of the need of cooperating in every movement in behalf of the ex-service men and their families who had sacrificed so much for the general good.

Mrs. Mellon was enthusiastic in her opinion of the importance of women's clubs joining the federation which is a strong and powerful organization doing a helpful work in an ever-broadening field. Mrs. Spear, vice-president of the New Hampshire State Federation of Women's Clubs, brought greetings from the 12,300 club women of New Hampshire, and told what these women are doing for their own towns, their state and for New England at large, through their agitation and constructive work particularly along the lines of education and forestry. It is due to them that the bill requiring a school year of at least thirty-six weeks stands on the statute books, and that teachers are required to have a high school education and some special preparation for teaching in addition. These educational privileges are valued by the young people who show their appreciation by their regular attendance in the most severe weather, often making their way to school on skis and snowshoes. An especially valuable work has also been accomplished in the agitation for reforestation, an undertaking most necessary in a state where one acre in every three is waste land, where forests have been cut off. The problems of New Hampshire, where three families out of every four come from old New England stock, are very different from those of Massachusetts with its constantly increasing foreign-born population but that the women of New Hampshire will do their part in solving them was the feeling of all those who were privileged to hear Mrs. Spear's bright and interesting account of what has already been accomplished.

Mrs. Spear is herself a daughter of Massachusetts, having at one time lived in Andover, where her father, Rev. Mr. Clough, was minister of the Baptist church. She attended the Pynchard school with the Class of 1896. At present she is located at Plymouth, N. H., where her husband is a member of the faculty of the Plymouth Normal School.

Piano music by Miss Marion Abbott who played Brahms' Rhapsody in B minor and Chopin's Fantaisie-Improvisation, and music by the K-E-Y trio. Serenade by Pierri and Flegier's Love Song added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Tea was served with Mrs. Frank H. Hardy and Mrs. Frank L. Brigham pouring, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Among the guests of honor were the presidents and secretaries of the following clubs: the November club, the Shawheen Village Woman's club, the Reading Woman's club, the Danvers Woman's Association, the Nineteen Hundred Club of Billerica, and the Travelers Club, Tuesday, Sorosis and Woman's clubs of Lawrence.

If Your Heart Stopped Beating

(It does — 12 hours a day)

The heart has a reputation for working 24 hours a-day. It does. But it rests after each beat so that it is resting about half of the time. Wise heart!

Its lesson should be followed by those women who are always busy with heavy work, and wondering what's the matter with them — wondering why their charm and youth and health have disappeared.

Why not rest like your heart does; erase the worry of wash day from your mind; for instance, cut 52 days of drudgery from the year? It's easy. Our Wet Wash Service washes, rinses, removes the excess water and returns your bundle damp, sweet and clean, ready to iron or starch and hang up to dry. A telephone call will bring wet wash to you, and prove it. And the price is low, indeed.

Nashville Listens to London

"On Thursday, March 13, I listened in on the London program for over twenty minutes, and would have listened longer if I had but known in time. (Signed) H. CHARLES COLLIER, New Plymouth, New Zealand

Brings U. S. to His Door

"My unbounded admiration of the two new Zenith sets, models 3R and 4R, grows with each new test of their ability and having brought practically the whole United States and Canada to my studio through these units, I feel qualified to speak. No set of the many I have used, can even approach either of the new models in perfect selectivity, ease of operation, freedom from distortion, or range. Truly, Zenith is more than ever the leading receiver of the world."

(Signed) ASHLEY C. DIXON, Stevensville, Mont.

Tunes Out Powerful Stations

"The night my Zenith was installed I was able to hear clearly and distinctly broadcasting programs from stations in all parts of the United States, and while listening in from the distant stations I shut out entirely very large ones located a short distance from my home, namely, Westinghouse KYW, and WDAP, the Drake Hotel. Not only have I been able to accomplish this, but the children, both under 12 years, do the same every night in the week."

The Farm and Garden Conference on Monday

The public is most cordially invited to the eighth annual Farm and Garden Conference to be held on April 6 at the November Club. This is a day to look forward to as the first real day of spring. The program will start promptly at 11 a.m., with a practical talk by a most successful amateur gardener, Mrs. Joseph Eno, of Bradford. Mrs. Eno's subject will be "A Perennial Garden Requiring Minimum Care." This topic is one for the expert who understands intensive cultivation and for the beginner who starts out for the first time to cultivate her acres. This latter victim of changing conditions who has the feeling that she might just as well start digging up Central Park has not as yet had sufficient sympathy nor constructive advice.

At 11:30 The Hardy Perennials: A Revue. Spring fashions in garden costume will be seen for the first time in New England. Do not miss this unique opportunity to see the living models showing garments adapted to all work, all weathers and all shapes.

At 11:45 there will be Timely Tales of Garden Triumphs (told in not over five minutes each). Don't wait to be called on!

At 1:00 o'clock a dainty and satisfying luncheon will be served.

During the noon recess visitors to the conference will wish to examine the booths where there will be for sale: duck hats, linen, leather, khaki, and denim coats; smocks; crash knickers, hand-embroidered and machine-woven dresses, garden shoes, garden gloves, woolen cloth (by the yard); string, tools, kneeling pads, seeds, plants, etc. It will be seen that a simple change purse will not be sufficient in case you fall for a whole summer wardrobe! Yet there are bargains such as thorn-gripper gloves at $4.50 and Auntie Bria coats from $1.50 up.

At 2:30 that old friend of the conference, William Craig of Weymouth, who has turned down ever so many other people, will speak on "Rock Gardens." Through the courtesy of Phillips Academy, a lantern will be supplied for Mr. Craig's illustrative slides.

The capacity of the Clubhouse is about two hundred. Come early.

Among those whose exhibits will greatly add to the practical usefulness of the conference are the following: Herbert F. Chase, R. H. Stearns Co., T. H. Lane & Son, The Lowell Industries, The Bromley-Shepard Co., The Miller Shoe Co., The Selden Mill, Smith & Dove Mfg. Co., Walter I. Morse, C. S. Buchanan, Macy & Co., J. H. Playdon. (This list is not yet completed.)

In charge of the conference are the following:

Mrs. N. E. Bartlett, Mrs. James C. Sawyer, Mrs. George Selden, Miss Amelia Shapleigh, Miss Mary Byers Smith, Mrs. William A. Trow.

Tournament Matches

Three games of billiards and two rounds of pool were played off in the Square and Compass club tournament on Saturday evening in the club rooms.

In cowboy pool K. Batcheller played David Coutts in the first round and defeated him by the score of 100 to 91. In the second round he defeated D. W. Clarke 100 to 89.

Several matches were played Wednesday night in the Square and Compass club tournament series in pool, cowboy pool, billiards and whist. The results were as follows:

Pool, first round, D. W. Clark, scratch, defeated R. Baker (94) 100 to 79; A. Hall (98) defeated D. Preston (95) 100-29.

Cowboy pool, R. Baker defeated Abbott Chase 101 to 100.

Billiards: H. Sellars (85) defeated D. W. Clark (92), 100 to 79.

Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

CHARLES HENRY HANSON
Charles Henry Hanson, president of the C. H. Hanson & Co., Inc., and a member of the License Commission for the past seventeen years, died Tuesday afternoon at his home, 8 Belmont street, Lowell.

Mr. Hanson had been a resident of Lowell for more than sixty years and besides taking an active part in the business life of the city for the greater part of that period, he also was interested in political affairs and served as a member of the old city council, the house of representatives and the state senate.

Charles Henry Hanson was born on a farm in Barston, P. Q., July 7, 1844, and came to Lowell in 1862. He was the son of Charles and Mary Folsom, both of whom were natives of Moultonboro, N. H. He received his early education in schools of Barston and at Barston academy. While still a young man he entered the trucking business with his father. Some years after the death of his father, he took his brother, James Hanson, into partnership and this formed the nucleus of a successful business which was built up under the firm name of C. H. Hanson & Co., Inc. The business was known as one of the largest of its kind in New England and the establishment of weekly auction sales, which were held for almost half a century, attracted buyers from various points throughout the New England states.

In 1919, the Hanson business establishment was practically destroyed by fire but was soon rebuilt and was conducted on an even larger scale than before. The death of James Hanson occurred in 1922 and in the same year fire again visited the Hanson business property in Rock street and entirely destroyed the plant.

Mr. Hanson was a member of the Fire department, in the early days of the hand pump, and besides his other political offices, was also superintendent of streets for two years. He was a 32nd degree Mason and a member of William North Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Pilgrim Commandery, chapter and council. He was also a member of the Highland club and the Grace Universalist church.

On June 14, 1866, Mr. Hanson married Ellen J. Smith of Londonderry, N. H., and three children, all of whom are dead, were born to the union. He is survived by his wife, Ellen J. (Smith) Hanson; one sister, Mrs. Daniel L. Whipple of Andover, and three nieces, Mrs. Grace Hanson Lightner of Newark, N. J., Mrs. Ethel Hanson Fitts of Brookline and Mrs. Frances Whipple Abbott of Andover.

Fiery Cross Blazes on Lupine Road

Whether the Ku Klux Klan or mischievous boys are to be blamed for the excitement caused last evening at 9:45 by the appearance of the fiery cross in Andover has not yet been determined.

An alarm from Box 43 called out the fire department, and the continuous whistling of an engine on the Boston & Maine railroad announced something unusual. No one was at the box but a circuit by way of School street and Lupine road discovered a fiery cross fifteen feet high blazing through the fog. It was located on land owned by Mrs. Joseph Smith, nearly opposite the electric light station and was formed of wood to which inflammable material was wired. Although a crowd soon collected, no one was discovered who was responsible for the blaze. The cross was torn down and the fire extinguished.

Philatheas Entertain X. B. K.

A supper was the reward of the Baptist X. B. K. boys for being the first to earn their quota toward the furnishings of the new vestry. The Philatheas and Men's club have not been quite so efficient and paid the penalty by entertaining the winners last evening.

A supper consisting of braised beef, mashed potato, string beans, relishes, rolls, ice cream with chocolate sauce, assorted cakes and coffee was enjoyed by fifty guests.

The waiters were Clinton Stevens, Charles Stone, Elmer Philbrick, and John Bacon. The members of the kitchen committee were Mrs. Ellis Hudson, Mrs. Charles Stone, Mrs. Clara Norton, Mrs. Elmer Philbrick, Mrs. John Albers and Mrs. Walter Ricker.

Several members of the X. B. K. were called upon for speeches, after which Rev. George F. Beecher of the First Baptist church Lawrence, made the address of the evening. Mr. Beecher's remarks were on three pressing problems of the church: "How to establish young people in the work of the church," "How to interpret religion so as to correct the moral condition in the community" and "International Cooperation."

Experiences With Wild Birds and Animals

Howard H. Cleaves spoke on his experiences with wild birds and animals before an audience composed of members of the Andover Natural History society and a large number of children at a meeting held in the Punchard hall on Monday evening.

Mr. Cleaves has been fortunate in obtaining some unusual and interesting photographs of birds and animals and his lecture was illustrated with many beautifully colored slides. One of the pictures of a fish hawk, taken when he had decoyed the bird into the range of his camera by means of an artificial goldfish, was especially fine and has been reproduced for the National Geographic Magazine.

The pictures included the ruffed grouse, sandpiper, red-shouldered hawk, fish hawk, hurrying gull and black-back gulls, as well as a family of baby racoons and another of "hyacinth squirrels."

Mr. Cleaves also showed pictures of several types of bird houses and winter feeding stations which help to attract birds about the home, and told of the long migratory flight of the little white-throated sparrow from Canada to Georgia, which has been traced by means of bird-banding.

At a short business meeting presided over by Omar P. Chase, three new members were elected to membership in the society: Mrs. Mary A. Davis, Miss Fannie Davis and Miss Sarah McKeown.

A nominating committee which will report at the annual meeting to be held in April was as follows: Frank B. Jenkins, Winthrop Boutwell, Mrs. Anna Faddock. The meeting adjourned at 10:20.

Didn't Drive Fast Enough

Loafing along the Reading road in a Peerless touring car at the rate of fifteen miles an hour was the clew which led Patrolman Joseph Fratus of the State Constabulary at Reading to stop Joseph Messina as he was driving along the Andover-Reading road on Tuesday afternoon.

Investigation disclosed the fact that Messina who resides at 90 Springfield street, Lawrence, was transporting ninety-seven gallons of alcohol carefully put up in gallon cans. The car was listed to Mary Scioti of Lawrence.

Joseph Messina appeared before Judge Colver J. Stone in the local police court on Tuesday afternoon when he was fined $100 for illegal transportation and $100 illegal keeping. Antonio Messina, a cousin of the defendant, who accompanied him, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal transportation, and exposing and keeping liquor for sale, and the case was continued until April 3. ## Scored on the Orator

The atmosphere was getting slightly heated in the village hall, where the candidate for office was addressing a meeting of those who hoped would vote for him at the next election.

One man in the crowd was determined not to give the aspirant a moment's peace, and he didn't. At last the speaker lost his last remnant of patience and, shaking his fist at the heckler, he shouted:

"I look upon you, sir as a confounded rascal."

"Quite," replied the interrupter, with a sweet smile. "You are perfectly at liberty to look upon me in any character you desire to assume."

Stereoscopic Lecture

An interesting stereoscopic lecture was given in Bradley hall Tuesday evening by Chief Inspector John W. Plaisted of the state department of agriculture, under the auspices of the Men's Brotherhood of the Methodist church.

There was a good attendance and deep interest was shown in the lecture which dealt with the annual Fairs of Massachusetts in particular, and the eastern states in general.

The speaker pointed out the fact that the state department of agriculture encouraged fairs to the extent of organizing, inspecting and giving prizes. This is done to stimulate interest in agricultural products, to raise the standard in quality, at the same time increase the quantity in Massachusetts and New England. Each year a part of the agricultural products consumed in Massachusetts are imported from other states. Some are brought from Florida, 1500 miles, some from California, 3000 miles.

The activities of the state department of agriculture have to do with such products as milk, cheese, eggs, beef, vegetables, fruits, honey, preserves, grasses, grain, cattle, horses, hogs, rabbits and hares.

Chief Inspector Plaisted emphasized the fact, upon closing his address, that any one interested in the raising, improving or exhibiting agricultural products, is encouraged to write the state department of agriculture.

Pest Imported in 1885

The cotton boll weevil was originally Mexican, having been found around Monclova, state of Coahuila, Mex., where as early as 1868 to 1882 it did such damage to cotton that cotton-growing there was abandoned. In 1885 the boll weevil crossed the Texas border into the United States. It encroached steadily from year to year until, in 1922, it infested practically the entire cotton-growing region of the United States. The only extensive uninfested territory lies in west and northwest Texas.

Bowls Were Not Aliis

"A man selling pottery came to Salem and rapped at a certain lady's door," says the Boston Globe. "He was asked in. Just as he got inside the door he dropped one of the bowls, supposedly by mistake, and it did not break. When in the kitchen he dropped another, and then remarked to the lady that his bowls were guaranteed not to break. She bought some, to be paid for when delivered. When they came she put them away to wait until some of her friends would appear and she would drop one for a surprise. A friend finally arrived. The lady took a pot from the shelf and dropped it accidentally on purpose. It shattered into a thousand pieces—quite unlike the rubber samples."

Boys Win Twelve Out of Eighteen Basketball Games

The Punchard High school boys' basketball team won twelve of the eighteen games in which they figured during the past season. They divided honors with Methuen High and lost twice to Johnson, the latter taking off suburban championship honors.

The team made a good showing and were only turned back by the strongest opposition. They made a great sport at the close of the season, winning from Stoneham, Stoneham 2nd, Mitchell and Groveland High schools.

Reading High was one of the two schools to whip them twice during the season, Johnson High being the other. They twice defeated West Newbury, Groveland, the Ranger A. C. and Mitchell Academy.

Tonight the sophomores are giving a dancing party in Punchard hall. They held a class meeting yesterday noon.

The Seniors had some difficulty in vanquishing the Juniors at a track meet held Tuesday afternoon in the Cage at Phillips academy. Contrary to expectations the lower class showed unlooked for strength. This was especially proven in the jumping and weight events. Tate ran away from the field in the "1,000" and won easily. McDonald did well in the jumping events.

Coutts was the outstanding performer for the Seniors, winning four firsts. The final score was 49 to 31. It is hoped that these meets will become permanent institutions.

Stars in Southern Cross

The Southern cross is not a phenomenon. It is the popular name for a Southern constellation situated near the Antarctic circle, and therefore never visible in northern latitudes. It consists of four bright stars, to which fancy, aided by Christian associations, gives the cruciform shape. Two brilliant stars, which mark the summit and foot of the Southern cross, have nearly the same right ascension. The constellation, therefore, is almost vertical when passing the meridian, and these two stars act as pointers to the Antarctic pole.

Early Monopoly

Monopoly in America began in 1623, declares Edward MacMahon, associate professor of history in the University of Washington. A cow was brought to a Pilgrim colony from England, Professor MacMahon said, and allotted to several families, including Capt. Miles Standish, a bachelor. Captain Standish soon bought control of the cow, share by share, and he and his relatives enjoyed an abundant supply of milk while neighbors went without, related the historian.

PLACES THAT ARE NOUNS AND VERBS

Number of Common Words That Had Origin in Place Names Surprising.

The National Geographic Society, suggesting that the English language is full of geography, inquires whether you can connect these words with cities or places:

Lima beans, laconic, limerick, china, coffee, canaries, bauxite, savoy, gasconade, troy weight, saial, cologne, bologna sausage, tangerine, derby, castle soap and astrakhan.

Geography classes are doing this variation of "cross word puzzles" by giving the approximate latitude and longitude of places to be named.

Washington.—Can you name a seven-letter fabric from Cambrai?

Or a five-letter surgical dressing that took its name from a town in Palestine?

Or a popular seven-letter color named for a famous battle in Italy?

The number of common words that had their origin in place names is surprising, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Calico traces its ancestry to Calicut, madras to Madras, and cashmere to Kashmir.

"Textiles have the habit of appropriating town names for trade marks and the very history of the art of making cloth can be followed along its westward march by putting capitals to familiar terms and slightly changing the spelling. Silk takes its label from old China—both terms having a common origin in Sere, the early name for the people of China. Damask rightly reminds us of Damascus, although honor for the cloth's creation goes to China.

Europe called it damask because Damascus was the easternmost city which they knew as its source. In justice to Damascus it must be said her own looms later made the weave as perfectly as her steel-workers made damascene blades.

"Muslin still is woven in the cool, damp cellars of Mosul from long staple silky cotton of southern Mesopotamia. Fustian is a heritage of Rome in Egypt. The 'fossatum,' or wall, protecting an Imperial legion on the Nile became the nucleus of Cairo and in the Fustat, or Old Cairo quarter, Arabian weavers created fustian. 'Nansen' bear living testimony to France's contribution to the textile art; cambrie is the child of Cambrai, not long since a local point of the West front. Tulle, in central France made possible the gauzy cloud of beauty for many a modern 'creation,' while gauze itself honors Gaza in Palestine; Arras, also on the Western front, made wall hangings so well that civilization forgets to capitalize the 'a'; and gingham is said to relate to Gungamp in Brittany although it may go back to a Malay term, 'ging gang,' meaning striped.

Cows and Cloth of Jersey.

"Worsted barely manages to squeeze on the maps of Norfolk county, England, today, so little connection has it with the production of thousands of yards of worsted. The Channel Island of Jersey is well advertised by its cows, but who connects it with the jersey cloth that it originally made for stockings? Axminster in Devon admits it has made no rugs for more than one hundred years.

"These towns and places proudly boast their inventions but the way of inventors is hard—they often fail to get the credit. There is a noble bird in America which graces our fashions annually, but because some one thought it was a native of the Near East we call it turkey. The guinea pig ought to be a Guiana pig and about all panama hats see of Panama is the canal. And finally there is Brussels carpet—it is almost painful to explode the myth, but Brussels makes no brussels carpets. They were made in Wilton, England, another rug 'trade-mark,' and took the title brussels carpet because the designs imitated the famous Brussels tapestries.

"A man achieves fame's pinnacle, it has been said, when his name is incorporated into the language as a verb. The verb 'pasteurize' is a splendid wreath on Pasteur's grave. Few cities or countries give us verbs, although they have given hosts of nouns and adjectives. Sixty miles south of Smyrna, a river empties into the Mediterranean after twisting a 200-mile tortuous course. Modern maps call it the Meander, but once it was known as the Meander, memorialized in the verb 'to meander.' In 1500 when the classics of Greece and Rome were being saved to the world by the first master printers, Aldus Manutius of Venice brought out an edition of Vergil, dedicating it to the states of Italy. For this volume he created a new font of type, simulating script. When we italicize today we use that font. A Chinese poet serves to label a practice in the verb 'shanghai.'

"Make a better mousetrap, it is said, and the world will wear a path to your door. Names of towns and countries in our language are trademarks of famous 'mouse-traps.' Venice early adopted the sentiment 'when better mousetraps are made, Venice will make them,' and this city has given its name probably to more things than any other. There is tribute to its craftsmen in the terms venetian glass, venetian sauce, venetian red, venetian ball, venetian blind, venetian carpet, venetian chalk, venetian (a textile), venetian dentil, venetian door, venetian embroidery, venetian flat point, venetian mullo, venetian pearl, venetian raised point, venetian soap, venetian sunac, venetian swell for organs, venetian white, venetian window, and a venetian, meaning a domino for masquerades.

"Sardine" and "Sardonic."

"Sardine" and "sardonic" have little in common but they had the same mother, Sardis. The first arose from the native practice of preparing small fish and the last from the fact the ancients got there an herb that puckered up the mouth. The Phoenicians got salt at a little port in southern Spain and so they called it 'malac,' meaning to salt; but when we use its revised form, malaga, we mean a luscious grape. 'Vandal' and 'frank' are the opinions of dying Rome concerning certain Germanic tribes.

"Long ago a bloody battle was fought near Magenta, Italy. Quite unconscious of the gory allusion, women often wear magenta named for this reddened field. In 1636 a fancy-dressed troop of Croats from Austria were in France and the consummate glory of their costume the busy business man perpetuates today as his only vanity—the tie, or a cravat, from 'Croat.'

"Patricians of Rome liked to summer at a pleasant, sheltered seacoast resort they called Bala. Rome's Miami has given its name to thousands of indentations on hundreds of seacoasts and in some tongues it still is 'bala'.

Deserves Another Name.

"Champagne should be called perignon, and thereby hangs a tale. Certainly the man who may have invented the use of corks to stop bottles as well as a wine deserves a place in the language. Dom Perignon was a monk in charge of the cellars of the Haut Villers abbey in Champagne back in the Eighteenth century. It had been the custom to stop bottles with pads of hemp or cloth steeped in oil, but the monk conceived the use of corks instead. The firmly stoppered wine, he discovered, cut up all sorts of antics, that soon became famous. The evil one helped in its manufacture, so rumor spread, but finally Dom Perignon's secret leaked out. The world goes elsewhere than to Champagne for the concoction today, though it is called champagne, forgetting Perignon.

"The English language is full of geography. But how many of us connect these terms with cities or places: Lima beans, laconic, limerick, china, coffee, canaries, bauxite, savoy, gasconade, troy weight, saial, cologne, bologna sausage, tangerine, derby, castle soap and astrakhan?"

Plan Air Service North

From San Francisco

San Francisco.—California's first attempt at a regular commercial aviation service is to be started shortly with the establishment of a passenger and freight route between San Francisco, Sacramento and Chico, 200 miles to the north. A fleet of five planes will begin the service. The train time will be cut by several hours.

The planes will carry five passengers each and 200 pounds of baggage and will maintain an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

The project is backed by Sacramento valley bankers. Fare for each passenger between San Francisco and Sacramento, a distance of 90 miles, will be $10 one way and $17 round trip.

The company will issue an insurance policy with each ticket, protecting both the passenger and the company in case of accident.

All the pilots engaged are former American overseas flyers.

Stretches Baby's Skull

to Let Brain Develop

New York.—Marlyn Alice Friedman, whose abnormalities were such when she was born five months ago that the district attorney of Bronx county investigated a report that the child had been put out of the way, has been returned to her parents a normal child in every way.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Friedman of 2284 Grand avenue, the Bronx. Dr. Oscar A. Spier of 51 East Ninety-sixth street, had the infant transferred to Park View hospital. Her skull was cut open and stretched, so as to allow more room for brain development.

Before being sent to her home the child was under observation at Bellevue hospital, where the opinion of Doctor Spier and the surgeons who operated on her was confirmed. Doctor Spier sent the baby home with a certificate that she was "absolutely normal in every respect."

American Broadcasting

Stations Most Efficient

London.—American radio broadcasting stations as a general rule have a greater radius of transmission than British stations of the same power, according to a sailorman.

During the last year he has made six voyages to the Mediterranean from the United States and has consistently listened in on each voyage on his home-made four-tube set. He was able to pick up KDKA, Pittsburgh; WBZ, Springfield, Mass., and WGY, New York, the whole way across the Atlantic to Gibraltar, and on one occasion got KDKA on three tubes while in port on the east coast of Spain.

Other American stations were picked up on two tubes at distances as great as 2,500 miles with good results, but when using four tubes the correspondent was seldom able to pick up British stations at distances of 1,000 miles.

Relief and Princess Pat

STYLE SHOES IN COMFORT SHAPES

A secret of foot beauty and shoe comfort

IN this picture you see one reason why Walk-Over Relief and Walk-Over Princess Pat are such comfortable style shoes—that is correct heel height.

When you lie down and relax, notice that your extended foot takes an easy, natural and comfortable position much the same as in this picture.

When you think of comfortable heel heights, remember this comfortable position of the foot. You can see that heels should not be flat upon the ground—too low—nor should they be too high. Walk-

Over has determined the correct heel height for comfort and you find it in Relief and Princess Pat.

Princess Pat and Relief have heels that are correct—low enough for comfort, and high enough for ankle beauty. Princess Pat is the shoe with the straight inside line that fits the normal foot. Relief is extra-wide across the tread. Both have the famous Walk-Over narrow fitting heel that is as smart as it is comfortable.

You will find these two famous shoes, in many smart styles, here at the Walk-Over store.

Recital at Abbot Academy

The townspeople of Andover are cordially invited to a recital to be given by Walter Edward Howe, on Tuesday night, April 7, at eight o'clock. This recital comes in the faculty series, being the fourth of the season, and is offered to the public without admission fee. Mr. Howe will be assisted by his cousin, Miss Florence E. Howe, who will sing two groups of songs.

Miss Howe, who has a lyric soprano voice of wide range and beautiful quality, will sing as her first group Wagner's "Traum und Mozart's Alleluiah. These songs will be accompanied on the organ as they are better supported by a quasi orchestral accompaniment, than by the black and white of the piano. Both are songs of the first magnitude, offering not only abundant opportunity for the voice, but also music of purest quality. For her second group, Miss Howe will sing three songs of diverse character, written by Mr. Howe. These songs are, "Chinese Love Song," words by Paul To-Shun, "Four-leaf Clover," the well-known verse, and, "Isle of Innisfree," words by the Irish poet, W. B. Yeats. The Chinese and Irish songs, are not imitative in the racial sense, but are rather, treated from the standpoint of modern idiom. Miss Howe sings these songs with superb feeling for their intention.

Mr. Howe will play three groups of pieces; one a Wagner group, arranged chronologically, a group written by the Englishman, J. Stuart Archer, and the sixth organ sonata of Alexander Guilmant.

The prelude to the early opera Lohengrin, with its placid, ethereal music, begins the Wagner group. It is followed by the "fire music," taken from the last act of "Die Walkure." This is orchestral music of unsurpassed beauty. The concluding piece of the Wagner group will be the preludes to the operas, "Tristan and Isolde," and "Parsifal." There is nothing in music more searchingly and hauntingly beautiful than the phrases of rising infection in the "Tristan and Isolde" prelude. The prelude to "Parsifal" with its "Good Friday" music will have a certain appropriateness at this particular season of Holy-week.

The Archer group, including an Intermezzo and Concert Caprice, are pieces of romantic feeling, particularly the former with its graceful phrases and interesting harmony. The latter is conceived along lines of brilliancy, but includes a middle section of considerable piquancy.

The eight organ sonatas of Guilmant form a strong background for the entire modern school of organ playing. They are in themselves not modern, but they distinctly point out the possibilities which have been fulfilled by Viennese. The Sixth Sonata is rarely heard in these days. It came shortly after the magnetic fifth, and the popularity of the earlier sonata beclouded the undoubted luster of the sixth. It is, however, a work of much brilliance and distinction. Written in only three movements, it is compact and compelling.

The program:

Vorspiel zu Lohengrin	Wagner
Feuerschaub (Die Walkure)	Wagner
Vorspiel zu Tristan und Isolde	Wagner
Vorspiel zu Parsifal	Wagner
Träumerei	Wagner
Alleluiah	Mozart

Rebuild your worn-out soil and keep it productive

EACH crop robs the soil of some of its crop-producing strength (fertility)—and New England soil has been producing crops for generations. Revitalizing is essential. "For the Land's Sake" use Bowker's Fertilizers.

Fifty years of constant study of New England soils and crop requirements have put into Bowker's a quality that not only aids in upbuilding the soil, but in bringing each crop to full-bearing maturity in the short New England growing season.

For proper plant-food sources, for correct availability, for perfect mechanical condition—for thorough dependability under the conditions that confront the New England farmer—there are no fertilizers like Bowker's.

C. M. T. C. Affairs

Spring and Baseball are here! The crack of the wagon-tongue as it meets the horsehide sphere sings a spring song that red-blood lads love.

The two ponds located at Camp Devens, Lake Champlain, Fort Ethan Allen's "Swimmin' Hole," and the Atlantic which furnishes the facilities for the camps at Fort McKinley, Maine, Fort Adams, Rhode Island, and Fort Terry, New York, will be patronized by all of the three thousand Citizens' Military Training Camp students attending the New England Camps. But the National Game easily predominates among the elective sports fostered by the C. M. T. C. Autographed baseballs, batted out by George Sisler, or given by Babe Ruth at last year's camp, were as eagerly sought after as though they were worth their weight in the precious metal.

Students rode Government mounts. Others whacked tennis balls about, lunged viciously at the volley balls or playfully punched each other with padded mitts. Basketball and football men kept in condition for the fall season. Track men worked with the Camp track meet in view. But Baseball was King. Twenty-one student teams competed officially for supremacy at Camp Devens, alone. Many more unofficial games were played.

Clean, healthful, invigorating, initiative-arousing; baseball is the favorite sport of the Citizens' Military Training Camp as it is the national game of the Nation.

One-quarter of the wage-earners of the United States are women.

SHAWSHEEN SOCCER

Fore River Defeated by Three Goals. Methuen Suffers First Defeat of the Season

Shawshien displayed a clever brand of soccer Saturday afternoon when they defeated Fore River by three goals to none at Balmoral field. Due to the rain, the attendance was small but the weather did not dampen the spirit of the players who continued through it all.

Shawshien, with the wind in their favor the first half, commenced promisingly and inside of a few minutes Nixon and Carrie had drives at the goal that passed outside.

Fore River defended stubbornly and Johnston got his front line moving for the first time and Davy Neil had Murdoch saving under the bar with a good header. It was a pretty try and a nice save.

For a time, Fore River threatened and Neil was the man to miss the mark with a good try. He was playing a hard game. Shawshien pressed strongly after this, and Nixon took a hard drive that touched in transit for a corner from which Fitzsimmons cleared.

Clever combination by Shawshien commenced to show itself and Fore River had a lively time in holding the fort. Thompson and Smith both making unsuccessful attempts. Murdoch made a grand save from Neil, and at the other end, Fitzsimmons almost let Carrie through, but the back made a splendid recovery and cleared. Purden made a dash for the goal mouth and passed to Carrie for the centre-forward to drive over the bar.

Fore River now attacked and a pretty drive by Lansom from the corner flag saw Tommy Murdoch picking it out from under the bar.

The Fore River goal came under heavy bombardment, Fitzsimmons and McDermott playing a superb defense at this stage.

Shawshien had by far the best of the play, but the opening goal had yet to come. Stewart pulled off a grand save and Nixon drove wide later. It was a grand play that gave Shawshien the lead, Bushnell, Smith and Purden all taking a hand, and it was left to the old Gillespie player to put on the finishing touch, Shawshien leading at the interval one goal to nothing.

In a downpour of rain, the teams turned around and went hammer and tongs right equalizer, but the Shawshien defense was at its best, and the front line was soon on the attack. Blyth and Edwards were much in evidence. Smith and Purden were sure playing a great foraging game, backed up with fine intermediates the play was mostly in the Fore River half. It was indeed surprising as the shipbuilders plugged every minute, but the Shawshien backs could not be shaken off, the result being continuous attack.

Hereabouts, Fore River put up the best rally of the game and it was a miracle in the scramble that the ball passed outside, for it looked all over an equalizing point for Fore River. It was the one and only chance in this period that seriously threatened as from now on, Shawshien kept the play mostly confined in the Fore River territory, during which Smith, Purden, Blyth and Edwards all came close with drives at the goal mouth, only to be saved or pass closely outside.

Shawshien's second goal was well worked by the front rank, and Smith seized his chance by driving a first timer that left Stewart helpless.

Just on the call of time, Smith received and finding Edwards unmarked, he used his brains with a left touch to the winger and the fans had the pleasure of seeing the prettiest goal of the match when Edwards sent the leather with a long drive well out of the reach of the goalie in the far corner of the net, leaving Shawshien deserved winners of a good victory by three goals.

Shawshien played a better combination and by its tendency to swing the ball around more than the Central boys received more opportunities. Todd scored the first goal and Murray converted a penalty kick when Perault handled the ball.

Dealers to Place Guarantee on Used Ford Cars

One of the most important steps yet undertaken to protect used car purchasers and at the same time place the handling of such cars on a more business-like basis is the announcement by Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, that operating under a company plan, Ford dealers will hereafter place a guarantee upon used Ford cars disposed of by them.

The Ford Motor Company is the first large automobile concern to take direct steps in the matter of used cars. Inasmuch as there are about as many Fords in operation in the country as all other makes combined it is apparent that the action of the Ford Motor Company will exert a wide influence on the marketing of used cars and in improving conditions generally in that phase of the automobile business.

"Every used Ford car represents so much unused transportation and is of value to someone," Mr. Ford said in his statement regarding the plan. "The Ford dealer through his position and intimate knowledge of the car certainly is the best judge as to the value of this transportation—the best to determine a price on the mileage the car may be expected to deliver—that's his business."

"With this advantage the Ford dealer is prepared to give his used-car customers, benefits not likely to be obtained elsewhere."

"If re-conditioning is necessary he has the work done by trained Ford mechanics using improved equipment and genuine Ford parts, and with these economies and advantages he is able to offer the used car to the purchaser at low cost and with a guarantee covering its mechanical fitness."

The plan becomes effective at once and places a guarantee on used Ford cars purchased from authorized Ford dealers thereby insuring proper mechanical operation under ordinary driving conditions.

In assuming the direction and supervision of this plan to be carried out by its dealer organization, the Ford Motor Company feels that it is embracing an opportunity to be of greater service to those who purchase used Ford cars.
